Resume Rater 2022 [New]

⬜ 1.0 ⬜ Was developed by the team which developed Padmapper - the mapping app which is used by millions of iPad and iPod touch users worldwide. ⬜ Resume Rater Rates resumes for their suitability / relevance against a given functional background or a given skill background that you are looking for in any resume. ⬜ On clicking on any of the categories / tags, only the relevant resumes will get displayed. ⬜ On clicking on any of the resume category / tags, a box containing multiple tag slots will appear. You can add multiple keywords and multiple tags at once. ⬜ The details of the resumes in the box will not be shown so as not to get the looks of a spammer. ⬜ After you click on add tag, tags for the given resume will be added automatically. ⬜ You can toggle the displayed categories and tags using the checkboxes at the top of the page. ⬜ You can search the keywords manually. ⬜ You can sort the resumes using the checkboxes under the categories and tags. ⬜ Resume Rater supports multiple languages - like English and French. You can provide input in either of these languages. ⬜ You can enter a language and a country code manually. ⬜ You can use any of the supported languages & countries/regions (provided by Yahoo) as a search term. ⬜ Support for languages other than English and French is in development. ⬜ Resume Rater gives one-click preview for every resume that is displayed. ⬜ You can view the readability rating of the resume just like you view the readability rating of any text message on your phone. ⬜ View the

Resume Rater description. ☐ You can bookmark the resume categories. ☐ You can export the resume categories that you have marked as read. ☐ You can export the resume data in a comma-separated format. ☐ You can export the resume data in an Excel (.xls) format. ☐ The resume data is not stored in the database. ☐ Send in Feedback.A series of intersecting historical narratives, a street in Pakistan's largest city, the Bollywood superstar Shahrukh Khan's latest film -- and a tense U.S.-Iran standoff. The importance of a software (product / application) is evaluated on the basis of how easy it is to "learn", to "use", to "understand", to "navigate", to "operate" (really, EVERY FINGER THING!), to "use" (in case of a difficult application to use) and to "master" (something of importance to a new user). On the other hand, "usability" is to determine how well a software (product / application) "suit" you. How do we rate the usability of an application? "Usability" rate is a subjective measure and hence we take into account people's opinion. But "usability rate" carries an objective weightage, which is established by the following : # The "Top Usability Advisers" The foremost authority who share their views on software and usability in National Newspapers, Journals, US News and WorldReports in India (on an average). # The "Product Reviews" The popular ratings given by the crowd! How to rate the usability of an application? How often a software (product / application) is used? How easy a software (product / application) is to learn? How easy a software (product / application) is to use? How easy a software (product / application) is to navigate? How easy a software (product / application) is to understand? How easy a software (product / application) is to operate? How easy a software (product / application) is to master? How much trouble (time and effort) would it take to learn the software (product / application)? How much trouble (time and effort) would it take to use the software (product / application)? How many applications do you

If you are looking for someone to "Read" thousands of unsearchable text resumes, "Rater" program comes to your rescue. For over a decade, we have successfully "Rrated" resumes across several industries such as education, engineering, medicine, law, finance, sales etc. Resume Rater literally mimics human brain, as it "Reads" each resume, spots the presence (or absence) of the selected function / skill related keywords (and their context), and assigns predetermined "Weightages" (in human brain's parlance - the "importance") to each keyword to compute an overall

SCORE for each resume. Here are some key features of Resume Rater: ☐ Resume Rater "rates" resumes for their suitability / relevance against a given functional background or a given skill background that you are looking for in any resume. ☐ Resume Rater sorts the text resumes into categories ☐ When you click on any particular "Category" in the table, only the relevant resumes will get displayed ☐ It saves your time (- the scarcest resource). ☐ It automates (albeit, thru collective intelligence of thousands of users), the "Rating" process. ☐ It vastly improves the quality of rating (being unbiased / untiring / thorough). ☐ It enormously speeds-up the shortlisting process (whom to call for interview?) ☐ You are no more glued to your mailbox! ☐ It enables you to spend more time interviewing / evaluating candidates (something which no software can do). Resume Rater highlights (in RED) the keywords found in a resume. When you click on any of these keywords, a set of relevent INTERVIEW QUESTIONS pop-up! Then you can link CONSULT WIKIPEDIA to find answers! This feature works when you are online. ⬜ Suddenly those thousands of unsearchable text resumes lying in hundreds of files and folders on your harddisk, get Rated (score-wise) Organized (Function / skill wise) Meaningful (for which vacancy?) Searchable (a matter of seconds) Requirements: ⬜ Pentium III / Equivalent Processor, 1.3 GHz or Higher ⬜ 256 MB RAM ⬜ 40 MB Free Disk Space ⬜ Microsoft Office 2003 or Higher ⬜ Microsoft Data
